WILSON APPEALS TO CONGRESS TO AVERT CALAMITY

MOTHER TELLS THE SORDID STORY OF DEAD GIRL'S LOVE

"Mrs. Myrtle Erlich"
Buried by Friends
While Fish Merchant
Leaves in Hurry

Married in Minneapolis

But Just Before Girl
Went Away to Die
She Told Mother
the Truth

A woman lay dead in a coffin at the White undertaking parlors all day yesterday. She was a pretty woman with well-shaped features and dark hair. On the death certificate she was given as "Mrs. Myrtle Erlich" and she was described as a widow.

Yesterday at about ten-forty in the morning one Nathan Erlich, a seller of fish, rushed into the Burlington depot, darted through the door into the office, and thrusting his money into the agent's hands, demanded a ticket to Stoddard.

Promised Burial Fees

Yesterday morning at an earlier hour Nathan was met on the street by Lena Student, daughter of Mrs. Theodore Student, widow, who lives in the basement of what is known as "The Little Cameron," across from the Milwaukee depot. Mrs. Student is Myrtle's mother and Lena is Myrtle's sister. Nathan was uneasy, but he couldn't escape, and he promised to give Mrs. Student twenty dollars to pay for a lot in which to bury the body of the woman who bears his name.

You observe that this was before the Burlington local left? It is remarkable, but Nathan was called out of town unexpectedly—very unexpectedly. He went to De Soto. It was probably the rush of important business that prevented him from visiting Mrs. Student and giving her that twenty dollars.

However, let us be just to Nathan. He had already declared to Poor Commissioner Burdick that he was in no way responsible for any expenses connected with "Mrs. Myrtle Erlich." He had also emphatically stated to Judge Brindley that "Mrs. Myrtle Erlich" was not his wife.

You mark, however, the singular coincidence of names? Let Mrs. Student tell her story. Mrs. Student was seen at her home in the basement of the Little Cameron yesterday afternoon by a TRIBUNE reporter.

"Why is your daughter called Mrs. Erlich?" was the question put to her.

The Mother's Story

Mrs. Student folded her hands. "I'll tell you the straight of it," she said. "Nathan Erlich was a great admirer of my daughter. Last year he was around here a good deal of the time. Nothing was too good to do for her—then."

Last January my daughter who is dead said to me, 'Ma, Nathan and I are going to Minneapolis to be married.' I thought nothing about it—I used to live in Minneapolis and if Myrtle—she was a widow, and her name was Leafblood—wanted to be married in Minneapolis, I thought it was all right, too. People are like that, no?"

"Then I got a letter from Myrtle. She said that Nathan and she were married and living in a good home and had lots of good furniture. Then came other letters, always saying she was married. I was glad."

"Then Nathan came down to see me with Myrtle. I asked him, where was the marriage certificate?" "In a suitcase in Minneapolis," he answered. Then I asked him, are you married to Myrtle, and he held up his hand—like this—and swore by God that he was married."

Cast Off By Man

"Myrtle was perfectly well when she went up to Minneapolis, but when she came back, it was different. She was sick. And Nathan would have nothing to do with her—not a thing. Him that had bought all those things. She kept saying she was married to Nathan, and I thought nothing about it—except that he had run away."

"Myrtle kept getting worse—she had tuberculosis, and by and by Mr. Burdick came, and said she ought to go to the sanitarium at Eau Claire. That was two weeks ago. I guess she knew she was dying, because when she left me, she said, 'Ma, I'm going to die and I want you to know the truth.' Nathan and I were never married."

Then she went up there—and died. I wished I'd kept her here. If she was going to die anyway.

Before she came home, she wrote me that Nathan was treating her mean, and I told her to come to her Ma, that she didn't have to take anybody's bad treatment.

"But I'm going to get after Nathan. He's going just as far as the (Continued on Page 6, Col. 3)

GIRL WALKS EIGHT MILES
IN DARK TO FIRE SHELTER
OF FORMER LOVER'S BIKE

Amanda Huxshall, who lives with her parents in Wet Coulee, walked eight miles through the darkness Monday night to set fire to the ice house on the William Hartleigh farm. Tuesday she was brought to the city for examination before Judge Brindley for her sanity.

For some time past Amanda has accepted the attentions of a hired man, employed on the Hartleigh place. Lately her lover's attentions began to cool. When Amanda didn't like his actions, it is said, she would try to mutilate the motorcycle which he rode. When he had apparently left her, she decided that the destruction of the motorcycle was the only thing that would console her. So she made her trip, but found the machine to be safely locked in the ice house. Lacking other means of destruction, she set fire to the building, endangering the big barns that stood nearby. The blaze was discovered before it had spread, and the girl was captured.

HATTON COMPILES
THE INDICTMENT
AGAINST PHILIPP

At Black River Falls He
Repeats Eleven Counts
Against the Present Administration

Undermines the System
Stalwart Policy of Destruction Outlined by Governor's Attitude

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., Aug. 29.—William H. Hatton, progressive candidate for the republican nomination for governor, in a speech here last night clearly defined the issue between himself and Governor Philipp by bringing an indictment of eleven counts against Governor Philipp and his administration.

The Indictment

Mr. Hatton said: "Through his public utterances and his official acts Governor Philipp is destroying the confidence of the people in the railroad commission, first by appointing to the commission men who have been servants of the public service corporations for many years; and second by declaring publicly that all regulation of transportation companies should be left to the interstate commerce commission."

"In his first message to the legislature he recommended legislation that would break down the efficiency of the income tax by placing upon the local assessors the work of assessing incomes, thereby subjecting the whole plan to local pressure and possible manipulation by local influence."

"In his first message to the legislature he attacked the very vitals of the workmen's compensation act by recommending that the work of administering the law be left to the county courts."

"In his first message to the legislature he asked that the legislative reference library be abolished, the only instrumentality through which it is possible for the members of the legislature to inform themselves accurately on matters of legislation upon which they have to vote."

Sacrificed Waterpowers

"Upon his recommendation the state's rights and the public's interest in waterpowers were sacrificed. And through his appointees on the railroad commission, acting under authority of a new law passed by his legislature, a value of $1,200,000 was given to the franchise of a single waterpower company—a franchise which the state gave to the waterpower company free of charge. This unusual, unwarranted and unjust valuation has laid an extra burden upon the users of that power for all time to come and has established a precedent which it followed will mean millions of dollars in a few years to all users of electric current."

"By refusal to reappoint a recognized authority and experienced dairyman to the position of dairy and food commissioner he has reduced the efficiency of that department, to (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4.)

HOUSTON OFFICIAL
SAFE BY MIRACLE
AUTO LEAPS BLUFF

E. N. Newhouse and
Miss Tootsie Medinger
Go Over Road
Under Reservoir

Car Smashed; Two Safe
Occupants Thrown Out
on First Roll But Car
Bounces 150 Feet
Down Hill

A smashed automobile lying canted into the underbrush, its wheels buried in the sand 150 feet below the Granddall Bluff Reservoir, is a silent witness to one of the most spectacular automobile smashups recorded in the city's history. It occurred Monday evening, when a roadster driven by E. N. Newhouse, Caledonia, auditor of Houston county, Minn., with Miss Tootsie Medinger, of this city, rolled from the road, flung its occupants out, and tumbled down the bluff almost to the edge of the golf links fairway. Newhouse was painfully cut and bruised, but his companion escaped with a few scratches.

Jumps Road

Newhouse and Miss Medinger were returning to the city along the bluff road. They rounded the hairpin turn at the corner of the reservoir in safety, but fifty feet further down the steep incline the car swerved and went over the side. Newhouse told Dr. Callahan, who dressed his injuries, that he had turned out to pass a team.

On the first revolution, the driver said, he and his companion were thrown free. Probably this fact saved their lives, for the big machine hurtled down, caroming against trees and leaping rocks and ditches, for 150 feet before it brought up. It was badly smashed.

Auto Signals Accident

Golfers on the Country club links were attracted to the scene by the agonized tooting of the machine's electrical signal, which blatted at every revolution of the car. When the machine brought up, the signal was still in operation, and it shrieked away until the battery was exhausted.

The racket brought a dozen golfers dashing from the links to the battered machine. Up the bluff they saw Newhouse and the girl picking themselves up, disheveled and bruised, but not badly hurt.

Dr. Callahan said that Newhouse suffered a broken rib in the accident, with bruises and scratches all over his body and a cut on his head.

SURRENDER HOPE THAT NORTH SIDE
BOY STILL LIVES

With all hope practically gone that Roy Carroll is still alive, his brothers, Clarence and George, returned to the search of the miles of marshy waste across from Dresbach Tuesday, to find the body if possible. It is now three days since the young man was dived away from the party at the Haba Haba club's shanty south of Dresden park. It is believed that even if no accident has happened, the north side painter cannot long hold out without food or drinkable water.

The searching party yesterday combed the marsh for a circle of three-quarters of a mile around the shanty, and found no trace of Carroll.

Carroll, who is 28, wandered away from a party during a picnic at the shanty Saturday night. He was not seen thereafter, and was believed to have lost himself in the marsh.

Austrian Lines Along

Stiffened

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Eighty thousand troops already are moving toward the Transylvania frontier for the invasion of Hungary.

Advance guards of this Rumanian force have crossed the Hungarian boundary in a swift advance on the two Transylvanian cities of Hermannstadt and Kronstadt. It is these forces which engaged the Teutons in the Rothenthurn pass, fifteen miles from Hermannstadt and in the passes a few miles from Kronstadt.

Rumanian troops attacked on the whole Teutonic front Monday and obtained successes, said a Bucharest dispatch transmitted from Rome by wireless Tuesday.

The whole Rumanian troop movement is going forward like clockwork, advances received here Tuesday indicated. King Ferdinand's armies almost completely mobilized and awaiting the word of war, are prepared to strike quickly on whatever front the Rumanian general staff determines to start its major campaign. The Germans acted with equal swiftness in meeting the new enemy in the Balkans. Dispatches from Lausanne Tuesday said that the Teutons closed the Swiss frontier less than an hour after Italy declared war on Germany. The German general staff knew this preceded a declaration from Rumania and it is believed began shifting troops eastward to reinforce the Austrians several hours before news of the Rumanian move.

WOMAN LEAPS TO

OF RIVER BOAT

Miss M. J. Wilson of Mediapolis Ends Life

No Word to Explain

Dashed From Stateroom and Leaped Over on Sudden Impulse
Says Companion

Rushing suddenly from her state-room, without a word of her intention, Miss M. J. Wilson, 32, of Mediapolis, Iowa, leaped to her death in the Mississippi river Monday night, over the rail of the steamer Quincey. The tragedy took place three miles south of La Crosse. Her body was not recovered, although the packet was stopped and a boat lowered to search.

Captain R. P. Gill reported the case to the police department when the steamer tied up at the levee at 1:30 Tuesday morning. Night Sergeant John Wendling returned to the steamer with the captain, and interviewed Miss Wilson's traveling companion, Miss Bluebaker.

Miss Bluebaker said that Miss Wilson had suddenly leaped up and dashed out of their cabin. She followed, and grappled with her companion on the deck, but Miss Wilson wrenched away and leaped over the rail. No cause was assigned for the suicide. Miss Bluebaker said Miss Wilson had attempted to take her own life some months ago.

A brother, Andrew Wilson, Mediapolis, Iowa, has been notified. He is expected here to direct a search for the body.

Miss Wilson and Miss Bluebaker were on a trip to Minneapolis. Miss Bluebaker continued her journey after telling her story to the police.

Miss Wheeler's Former Chief Writes
Tribute to Veteran of Local Journalism

EDITOR OF THE TRIBUNE:

It is always difficult to write suitably of a friend, and this attempt to respond to your request to write something of the late Alice Williams Wheeler, is certain to be a disappointment to her friends, because it is, of necessity, inadequate.

My recollections of Miss Wheeler go back to my childhood, and almost to hers. When I first lived in La Crosse, her mother, two daughters, and a son, attended the Congregational church, then a modest one story building, on ground that is now a part of the public market on Fourth street. Herbert, the brother, was a member of the same Sunday school class as I. Miss Wheeler was a noticeably attractive girl, just budding into womanhood and entering society. I was enough younger to regard her with that great admiration small boys often have for older girls who enjoy popularity and social distinction, as she did, in large measure.

In succeeding years I knew her and the family better.

Her father came to La Crosse from New York, and both he and Mrs. Wheeler are named in the Rev. Spencer Carr's census of 1854. Judge Bryant's notice of the La Crosse County bar, says that Daniel Reed Wheeler died Nov. 14, 1857, aged thirty-eight, "in the midst of a promising career." I have no recollection of him but I have heard my father say that Mr. Wheeler was very popular and that no lawyer better equipped or mentally superior to Mr. Wheeler ever settled in La Crosse.

Mrs. Wheeler was a descendant of the famous preacher, Roger Williams, who was driven into the wilderness by less liberal minded residents of Massachusetts, to become the founder of Rhode Island Colony.

It was a family of worthy antecedents, of cultivation and refinement. The mother who was early left with the care of three young children, alone in a little frontier town, was always a favorite among her pioneer associates. She was witty, original and brilliant in conversation and no story lost point in her telling. She bore her burdens and carried her responsibilities bravely and with good cheer.

Her daughter partook of many of her mother's qualities. She often surprised her friends with letters in verse, and in prose, that were spontaneous, bright and clever, and she had a gift for expression and turning a smooth phrase, that came in play in her vocation of recent years. I believe she did her first newspaper work, for me, on the Chronicle. She had no technical training and was almost as free from training in the schools as she was of the method and routine. It was nearly twenty years ago that she began. She was a mature woman and had never been cramped to daily tasks, but she immediately evinced enthusiasm, industry and perseverance that demonstrated her native ability and surprised her best friends. She was industrious, always patient and grateful under criticism, and willingness to do her utmost was never lacking. It was a morning paper and many were the times she came in after midnight with her report of some important social event, and showed the real newspaper spirit in her anxiety to "get it all in", to the last party gown.

Miss Wheeler had an inheritance from her forbears that was indelibly impressed upon her carriage and manner, as well as upon her mind. It was that indefinable something that Dr. Holmes meant when he said, "It takes a hundred years to make a lady."

Miss Wheeler was always a welcome guest in my household and in common with her many La Crosse friends, we say adieu to "Allie" Wheeler with unaffected sorrow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Military operation of the railroads of the United States, with the present train crews operating the trains under military draft, is the definite prospect before the country.

If the strike, set for Monday by the railroad brotherhoods takes place, that is the course President Wilson has in mind, it became known Tuesday.

To this end, Senator Newlands, after a morning conference with the president took up with Attorney General Gregory, Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clark and Chairman Adamson of the house interstate commerce committee, the preparation of a bill to make such action possible.

President Wilson was quoted as having declared his purpose Monday night to the four heads of the brotherhoods in a session with them at the White house.

"I intend to get through a measure," he is credited with having said, "empowering me to draft into the service men for military operation of the roads, and you will be the first ones I will draft."

A. B. Garretson, spokesman for the leaders who saw the president Monday night, however, declared Tuesday the president made no such statement to them. He denied also reports that the president had scored them for setting the date of the strike while the negotiations still are in progress.

HUNDRED INTEND TO ATTEND THE
"SOCIABILITY TOUR"

A hundred business men have signified the intention of joining the "sociability tour" of the Chamber of Commerce agricultural bureau Wednesday, according to announcement by Vice President H. Clay Evenson of the bureau Tuesday. At least a score of autos, it appears certain, will make the trip. The start will be made at 10 o'clock from in front of the Chamber's quarters at the La Crosse club.

A change in the route is announced. Instead of traveling from here to West Salem, and thence circling west through the northern part of the country, the tourists will start north through Onalaska, Midway, Holmen and Stevenston. From the latter point the procession will go to Mindoro, the noon control, where a chicken dinner will be served by the ladies of the Mindoro Cemetery association. After the noon halt, the procession will visit the farm of L. M. Atwater, well known swine expert, who has invited the travellers to have a look at his prize Duroc-Jersey show herd, just prinked and conditioned for its annual trip to the fairs. H. D. Griswold, dairyman, has also invited the visitors to inspect his model Guernsey farm near West Salem.

FAIL TO FIND
WILL OF SALZER

Although the late Henry Salzer held property in almost every state in the union and in Canada, diligent search has thus far failed to reveal a will. John Salzer is to be appointed special administrator as soon as the required bond is filed, when further search will be made in the private vault at the bank.

Success in Congress

Wilson

By ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—As a dramatic climax to his unprecedented negotiations to avert the most disastrous labor war that ever threatened the United States, President Wilson Tuesday afternoon appeared before a joint session of congress and urged legislation to "safeguard the life and interest of the nation."

He said he urged the legislation "not in haste or merely as a means of meeting a present emergency, but as permanent and necessary additions to the law, suggested, indeed, by circumstances we had hoped never to see, but imperative as well as just, if such emergencies are to be prevented in the future."

He recommended: 1.—Immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission, enabling the commission to deal with the duties now devolving upon it "with a promptness and thoroughness which are with its present constitution and means of action practically impossible."

2.—Establishment of an eight hour day as the legal basis alike of work and of wages in the employment of all railroad employees engaged in operating trains in interstate transportation. The time for the institution of this law is to be determined by congress. The president suggested no date.

3.—Authorization of the appointment by the president, of a commission to study results in the application of the eight hour day to railroad operation, alike for the men and for the roads; the investigators to report to congress at the earliest possible date but without recommendation as to legislative action.

4.—Approval by congress of consideration by the interstate commerce commission of freight rate increases to meet such additional expenditures by the roads as are rendered necessary by adoption of the eight hour day.

5.—Amendment of the federal law which provides for the mediation, conciliation and arbitration of such controversies as the present, by adding a provision that in case methods of accommodation now provided should fail, a full public investigation shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

6.—Empowering the president in case of military necessity to take control of such portions and rolling stock of the railways as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes, with authority to draft into the military service of the country such train crews and administrative officials as circumstances require.

Outlines Efforts
The president outlined in detail his efforts to effect a settlement of the pending dispute through friendly negotiations. His efforts, he said, had "resulted in complete deadlock."

Now the country faces, he said, a great national calamity with "cities cut off from food supplies and the commerce of the nation paralyzed. Countless thousands will in all likelihood be brought, it may be, to the very point of starvation."

Mediation under the existing laws has failed, he admitted, and arbitration has been rendered impossible "by the attitude of the men."

He said that he had offered the eight hour day as a basis for agreement because "the whole spirit of the time and the preponderant evidence of recent economic experience" spoke for it.

In the face of indications that the railroads would "ultimately be obliged to accept the eight hour day by concerted action of organized labor, backed by the favorable judgment of (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7.)

PLACE HOPE IN SWITCHMEN

ST. PAUL, Aug. 29.—Switchmen were today counted upon by Northwest railway heads to help break a strike of trainmen, if called. The operating heads of the roads in arguing their belief that the switchmen will go out on the road in the place of conductors and brakemen, if there is a strike said that in Northern Pacific and Wabash switchmen's strikes, conductors and brakemen had switched the yards and broke the strikes. This, the road heads say, antagonized the switchmen, who are "laying for their chance to come back," as one said.

SPARTA SCOUTS

BACK FROM CAMP

SPARTA, Wis.—(Special.)—The Sparta Boy Scouts have been out on their annual camping trip. The camp was located on the La Crosse river just below the Leon pond. There was good boating, bathing and plenty of space for all kinds of games. The camp was under the supervision of Rev. Clifford. The Boy Scouts who were members of the party were: Hughes Brenner, Paul Meacham, Carl Swartzlow, Lyman Leach, Floyd Foster, Steward Shattuck, Edward Krebs, Spencer Allendorf, Arthur Dougherty, Elmer Olson, Howard Russell, Carl Leach, Edgar Hubbard and Will Ewert.

Girls Also Camp

It is reported that the soldier boys who are to attend school and college the next year will be released from military duty. Prof. Bray of our city schools has been using his influence to bring about this result.

Rev. Hogan and family have returned from their vacation, spent in camp at Warrens and Mr. Hogan occupied the pulpit in the Congregational church today as usual. At the evening service there was a stereotypical lecture on "Turkey and the Great War." There were many beautiful and thrilling pictures connected with the life of the Armenian people.

NOVEL EXAMINATION

REVEALS VIOLENCE

HUSBAND CHARGED

MARLINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 29.—Many unusual features will figure in the trial of Dr. Oliver A. Howard, held in connection with the death of his wife, Frances Robertson Howard. Suspicion directed against Dr. Howard is predicted in the theory that he killed his wife following a quarrel over women's suffrage.

Prosecuting Attorney Sharp, it developed, has evidence gathered voluntarily by a committee of physicians who examined the body after it had been turned over to the local undertakers. They found nothing to indicate a narcotic had been used by the woman as her husband had suggested. Nor at first examination were there any marks on her throat, though, as the undertaker expressed it, "the hold seems to be loose."

One of the physicians hit upon a novel method of determining the cause of this. The skin on the neck was drawn back, the adipose tissue distended and electric light reflected upon it. The result was the revealing of the print of a thumb and three fingers as clearly as a picture on a screen.

Short Story

HER REANIMATING

SPIRIT

BY FLORA A. MONTY.

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Anne rebelled. "I won't sit around and smirk at Phil Langley all afternoon and sing for that supercilious bunch of traveling men at the picnic—so there! If I go, I'm just going to shut my mouth and enjoy myself as I please. What do those men want to come up here for, anyway? I'll wager anything that if we went to Norfolk, where most of them live, there wouldn't be a one of them even take us to a movie. If they happened to see us, they'd dash by, pallid with fear lest we'd show we expected them to say, 'How do you do?' No traveling men in mine! I'll go to the picnic, though, and give them a taste of something new—one girl who has decided to make things come to her instead of spilling her energy around as I've been doing."

Anne concluded her declaration of independence with a zestful madcap dance, indicative of unfathomed energy, and then plunged herself once more in the grass with the other girls.

"But, Anne!" reproached Zetta Hayne, who was the instigator of the picnic, "don't you want to have a good time?"

"Want to?" Anne burst forth. "Am I a normal human being or merely a useful stick of wood? Of course I want to. But I've been making myself a continuous entertainment committee for the last three years, frantic with the fear that people might not like me. I've simply fawned on people till it's no wonder they're disgusted. Now it has suddenly dawned on me that I'm not the one who's been getting the good time out of it. I've been singing to these fellows and feeding them and otherwise amusing them, fussing around like a wet hen, in doubt if I could please them, and never until this morning did I realize that I've been advertising my own defects—and so are we all."

"Anne!" gasped Zetta, who disliked being irritated.

"Well, it's true!" was the stout assertion. "They are judging us by the brand we've put upon ourselves. How much would any of them sell if they went around to merchants intimating that their stuff wasn't very good, but wouldn't they please buy some, anyway? They know they've got the goods—or they make a bluff at knowing it—and they get away with it, too. I've constantly praised and admired Phil Langley's success and never had sense enough to avail myself to his tactics. I'm Anne Stanhope, young, goodlooking, clever, and with a gift of song, and I'm now about to label myself as high-class goods and be taken on my own merits. Being a craven about my charms never got me anywhere, so now I'm going to follow my own intuition and attain my heart's desire. I revel in the thought."

"Anne! You'll spoil it all," wailed Hazel Sprout.

"Oh, come! I'll agree that I've acquired a new importance, but not so much as all that," was the rejoinder. "I'm going chiefly to entertain myself this afternoon. I'll not bother any one else. I'll just be and do what my reborn intellect tells me. My subconscious craving is cropping out to public view, so I'm about to indulge myself."

Indulge herself, she did. Phil Langley, who was apportioned to her in the trip to the woods, found her supinely indifferent to his handsome face and the artful blandishments which had hitherto brought forth an eager response.

"Why the muffler today, Miss Anne? Ill—bad news?" he queried.

She rewarded him with a ringing laugh. "Never felt better or gayer," she declared.

"Indeed? You certainly aren't much like your natural self," was the puzzled rejoinder.

"My dear Mr. Langley, you know absolutely nothing about my natural self," Anne informed him with spirit. "It's something you never saw, so pray, don't feel so competent to judge."

She was inwardly convulsed at the gasp with which he received her words. Finally, leaving him to come on alone with her basket, she raced through the woods ahead of the party, thrilling merrily to herself, and reached their destination fully ten minutes ahead of the others.

During the process of helping the girls spread the cloth and arrange the tempting food, Anne was volubly gay, addressing her remarks only to the girls. When any of the men ventured a word with her, she looked slightly perplexed, then wholly indifferent, and with the briefest possible answer, sought immediate diversion in another part of the woodland dell they had chosen for their outing.

They finished their supper with

OLD SETTLERS OF

LA CRESCENT IN

ANNUAL REUNION

The ninth annual reunion of the La Crescent Old Settlers' union was celebrated at a picnic held Sunday at the old La Crescent grounds near Bridge Switch. Twenty-one members were present and the occasion was keenly enjoyed.

The union came into existence in an informal way twenty-two years ago, at a picnic of "old-timers" attended by Mike Kane, Thomas Keegan, William Brown, Charles Lyons, George Potter, Andrew Hutzenebuehr, William Handorf, Franz Schroeder, Samuel and Levi Atkinson, John Coady, John Farrell, Joseph Harrison and Thomas McCaffrey. Of these but two have been claimed by death, Messrs. Potter and Handorf.

Thirteen years elapsed before the second meeting of the union, which was held in August, 1905. At that time it was decided to make a picnic an annual affair, a decision that has been carried out with gratifying results. Of the twenty-one members who attended Sunday, seven were of the original group who formed the society in 1894.

the sunset, and the dying glow cast a charm upon them all that made itself felt for the most part, by a desire to stroll off by twos to various spots along the border of the creek.

Anne's quick eyes noted the symptoms, and her feet fairly winged her away from the crowd before any one could join her and attempt a meaningless flirtation.

She had need of her quickness, for she was no sooner beyond a heavy grapevine than they missed and called for her. She dashed into a clump of bushes, and sat on the ground, entirely hidden, chuckling to herself as she heard Phil say: "Go on, I'll find her. We'll stroll up the creek."

She remained under the bushes till she heard him strike off in an opposite direction. Then she crept out, and, choosing a sheltered nook near the bank, lounged in comfort with her back against a friendly tree. At first she countered a sharp loneliness, in which she wished that Phil had found her after all. Then the peace and stillness of the woods entered into her soul like balm, and she dreamed in silence, a growing sense of strength and calmness stealing over her, and she suddenly knew things were right and that Phil would return before the others.

He came after some time, and sulkily demanded, "Where've you been all this time?"

Anne smiled whimsically. "Here."

"Why did you disappear so suddenly, just as we were about to go for a stroll?" was the next peevish query.

"Well," Anne drawled slowly. "If you must know, it was because I was frightfully bored."

The sharp silence that followed proved that the thrust reached home. Then he bowed. "I see I am permitted to learn some things."

Anne's desire for independence momentarily wavered, but she bolstered it up as she sat suddenly erect. "Yes," she responded gravely, "and I have learned some things, also, today—among them, that I've been wasting myself. So I resolved to change and see what others would do. Instead of amusing you today, I thought I would let you amuse me, but, frankly, on the way out you proved yourself a failure. So when I saw every one preparing for a little ramble I thought 'greater afflictions await us,' and I fled."

Phil had listened with set face, and when she concluded he turned and seized her hands resolutely. "This is merely a matter of doubt with you, Anne. I haven't had a fair chance. Give me the delight of pleasing. I'll try—I'll spend my life trying, if you'll only let me. Will you?"

"Perhaps," she smiled, knowing she had attained her heart's desire.

Marguerite Clark, reaching a height of popularity which makes her nearly as popular as Mary Pickford, is to quit the movies soon to vitalize her popularity on the stage. This is to be in a musical comedy to be produced by Charles H.ingham.

No longer is there talk about a stage star losing drawing power on the stage by permitting herself to be shown in pictures.

Miss Clark says she won't appear in pictures for at least a year after the conclusion of her present contract with the Famous Players.

Doris Baker, appearing in Fox pictures, is to be seen on the screen in the present in two current feature releases. One is the Kolb and Dillman picture, "Glory," in which nine-year-old Doris had one of the biggest roles in the picture, and the other the Universal picture, "A Daughter of the Night." At present Miss Doris is at Huntington Lake with Director Walter Reed's Fox company, and in which Doris has a program of stunts that would challenge the courage of a much older player. William J. "Don't you, sweetheart? We can settle this later on."
"You must go right away, or I will not let you go at all!"
"Do you mean you want me to get things, and go right now?"
"Yes." She buried her face in his shoulder. "If—if you stay in your room until breakfast time, I will look you in, so you can not leave me again. I know it. I am crazy today."
"Don't you think you owe me something, as well as your father and sisters? Didn't God bring us together, and make us love each other? Don't you think? He intended for each other? Do you wish you had never met me?"

"Then, sweetheart, be reasonable. Your father loved your mother, and he married her. That is God's plan for you. You have been a wonderfully brave and sweet daughter and sister, I know. But surely Fairy is old enough to take your place now."

"Fairy's going to be a professor and the girls do not mind her very well. And she isn't as much comelier to father as I am.—It's just because I am most like mother, you see. But anyhow, I promised. I won't leave them."

"Your father expects you to marry, and to marry me. I told him about it myself, long ago. And he has perfectly willing. He didn't say a word against it."

"Of course he wouldn't. That's just like father. But still, I promised. And what would the girls say? I should go back on them? They've trusted me, always. If I fail them, will they ever trust anybody else? You love me, Jerry, please go, and stay away." But her arm tightened about his neck. "I'll wait here until you get your things, and we can—say good-by. And don't forget your promise."

"Oh, very well, Prudence," he answered, half irritably, "if you insist on ordering me away from the house like this, I can only go. But—"

"Let's not talk any more about it, Harry. Please. I'll wait until you come down."

When he came down a little later with his suitcase, his face was white and strained.

"I put her arms around his neck," Jerry," she whispered, "I want to tell you that I love you so much that I could go away with you, and never see any of them any more, Papa, or the parsonage, and still feel happy, if I just had you! You—everything in me seems to be all yours—love you."

Her tremulous lips were pressed against his.

FIFTEEN MILLIONS IN THE WAR CHEST OF BROTHERHOODS

BY CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Fifteen million dollars bulge in the war chest of the railroad brotherhoods.

This amount, about equally divided among the four unions, is ready for distribution among the men should they need strike relief. It is to be doled out in portions of $40 a month among the 400,000 men who would be involved in a national railroad tie-up. How long it would last is problematical, for relief might start with the opening of the strike or might be delayed until later.

As the brotherhood men view it, their mighty chest probably would not be touched in the forthcoming strike for they believe it would be so brief that the men would not feel the pinch of unemployment.

German Troops Held in the Balkans in a Position to Strike

THE HAGUE, Aug. 29.—Field Marshal Von Mackensen, who led the successful Austro-German campaign through Serbia a year ago, will be in command of the German-Bulgarian armies operating against Rumania, according to Berlin advices Tuesday.

The German government is determined to push an aggressive campaign against Rumania, carrying the fighting to Rumanian soil early in the campaign, it was stated. Germany has known of Rumania's intentions for some time, the dispatches added, and has had troops in position in the Balkans to strike swiftly. The German general staff plans to paralyze the Rumanians with a blow that will eliminate them as a factor in the war within a few months.

The Rumanian minister to Berlin was leaving Tuesday on a special train. He sought a farewell interview Monday night with Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, but the interview was refused.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Strike headquarters were opened in the Grand Pacific hotel here Monday by H. J. BRADY IN PERSON DIRECTS FILMS

When William A. Brady announced his decision to take charge of the production end of the World Film corporation, and not put his name on a feature unless it really was a feature, very few people versed in the theatrical business, figured that this leading light of stagecraft would plunge right into the work and devote his time and energy to pictures. Nevertheless that is just what Mr. Brady has done.

One of his personally supervised releases is "The Rail Rider," with House Peters and Zena Keefe, directed by Maurice Tourneur. It will be shown at the Bijou theater on Wednesday only this week.

MME. PETROVA IN SENSATIONAL FILM

Mme. Petrova, the foremost emotional star of the stage or screen, will be seen here at the Casino today and the Strand tomorrow, in "The Eternal Question," a five part Metro wonderplay produced by the Popular Plays and Players. This is, without a doubt, the strongest feature in which the great Petrova has ever appeared, and to miss it is to miss one of the sensations of the year. The production abounds with big scenes, including a realistic chapter made at sea, when the hero gives chase in an aeroplane and overtakes a steamship going under full steam. The heroine, played by Mme. Petrova, has been abducted and taken aboard the vessel, and her rescue is one of the most thrilling affairs ever shown in motion pictures.

In this production Mme. Petrova wears half a dozen new gowns that are extremely costly creations, and added to other clothes worn by the star, constitute the most expensive wardrobe of any actress now appearing before the camera.

Fred W. Clark

The President of the United States declares the necessity for keeping our troops on the border, still remains.

We do not question his word.

The Governor of Wisconsin wishes to furnish the full quota of troops called for from his state.

The organizations from our home city are much short of full strength. We need men and quite a number of them.

I am allowed to accept unmarried men between the ages of 18 and 35, with no dependents, who can pass the army tests, for any organization in the Wisconsin Volunteer Army.

Recruits will be sent to Camp Douglas at once where, after 15 days' of drill and getting equipped, they will be forwarded to organization selected at San Antonio, Texas.

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special).—Unlike Old Dobbin, who will sometimes stand for hours without hitching, Dr. Lukkason's car seems to find time irksome when left alone. When it's owner left it standing before his home a day or so ago, it started off alone. Mr. Lukkason either forgot to put on the brakes or else, being in place, they did not work and the car shot down the incline, over the road and into the residence of Alak Dahle a little to the southeast, the impact taking off one of the south side porch posts of the residence. The wind-shield of the car was broken and the steering-gear somewhat bent, otherwise no damage done.

Apple Crop Short
 The apple crop near this city seems to be a disappointment this year. Almost every orchard has been visited by blight, which has rendered the fruit undersized and of poor quality. In the orchard of Mr. D. J. Tew, of this city, there seems to be as good a crop as can be found anywhere near here, but at that, far short of the expected yield. Tame plums are quite plentiful, as are also the wild variety.

Bakers Boost Bread
 Beginning with last Monday, the city bakery has raised the price of bread one cent per loaf, making the price six cents. The very high cost of all ingredients makes the move necessary, for one thing, having taken several upward leaps in price, recently. Last Friday another raise was made of twenty cents on the hundred, bringing the cost of the patents up to $2.25 and $2.45 per sack. Flour from the local mills is, of course, always a good deal lower in price.

Local and Personal
 The four delegates to the recent state convention of the W. C. T. U. returned from Owatonna last Friday, bringing very enthusiastic reports of the convention and the excellent manner in which all visitors were entertained while in attendance. Local delegates were Mesdames John Akre and Andrew Ness, local and district treasurer and recording secretary, respectively, also the Misses Mattie Julrud and Elva Lougen.

The numerous friends of Mrs. Charles Nicholas, a former resident of this city, but for some time of Gordon, Wis., were very pleasantly surprised to greet that lady last week when, in company with her husband's brother, Irwin Nicholas and his wife, of Boone, Ia., she came as a guest for a time. The trip was made from Boone to Minneapolis in Mr. Nicholas' car and from there the two ladies and two children came down by train to Rushford. They expect to return by the same route the middle of this week. Mrs. Nicholas has so far regained her health as to be able to walk quite a bit without a crutch. When she left this city about a year and one-half ago, the lady had been confined to her bed for about a year.

Originally Latin Phrase.
 The origin of the phrase: "All my eye, Betty Martin" comes of mispronunciation of the Latin "O mibi, beate Martine," which is literally, "O blessed Martin (help) me" and is found in several litany of the middle ages. Now it is slang for a lie. There are several such Latin phrases which have been degraded or transmuted. Hocus pocus is derived from the solemn "hoc est corpus," and siserary is a corruption of certiorari.

RUMANIA ACTION
INDICATES OPINION
FAVORS THE ALLIES

By J. W. T. MASON
 (Written for the United Press)
 NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Rumania's entrance in the European conflict is significantly the judgment of the Bucharest government that the tide of the war is turning, at least in the eastern battle arena.

Rumania has waited with unusual patience for two years before deciding the central empires cannot gain a victory in the Balkans; and the information in possession of Bucharest authorities must now be fairly conclusive, or the old policy of caution would continue to dictate Rumania's attitude.

There is no present possibility that Rumania's entrance into the war will open the Dardanelles and permit Russian grain to relieve the world's scarcity of foodstuffs. The Rumanians will not venture upon a roundabout campaign against Turkey, and even though Turkey declares war against Rumania the latter's attitude must be a defensive one against the Moslems.

OPENS SEPT. 21

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 29.—The University of Wisconsin will be opened on Sept. 21. The three days' previous will be registration days. The opening will not be delayed on account of infantile paralysis, according to Registrar W. D. There are evidences, however, that owing to the increase in the non-resident tuition fee there may be a falling off in the number of students attending from other states.

 The happiest people in the world are the poor. Without attempting to stifle the ambition for self-advancement, religion has always taught men to be content with their lot, and shown the folly of relying upon possessions as the key to happiness. Strike Order Holds
Brotherhood Leaders
Say They Have no
Authority to Rescind Order

BY CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The four brotherhood chiefs and the twenty-four members of the executive committee on Tuesday agreed to reject the proposal of the railroad presidents, as made to President Wilson Monday. No formal announcement was made, but it is known this action was taken.

"We will submit our decision to the president today," said President Lee of the Brotherhood of Trainmen. The brotherhood heads explained Tuesday they have no authority to rescind the strike call for September 4th.

It is understood that the executive committee of twenty-four, to whom full powers were delegated by the 640, could grant such authority to rescind the order to the four leaders, but that it has thus far withheld it.

Brotherhood leaders feel that President Wilson's proposal for an eight hour day law will be a greater burden to the railroads than to the men.

President Wilson's other proposal creating a law similar to the Canadian disputes act is generally opposed by the brotherhoods. They call it "the greatest throttle on labor" ever devised.

"While the law provides that no action shall be taken by either side, pending investigation," said a leader, "experience in Canada shows that capital always has taken advantage of the investigation period to prepare for a strike. The Canadian act is named for Lemieux. We have been 'Lemieux' too many times."

If President Wilson plans to halt the threatening railroad strike through a law similar to the Canadian dispute act, he must get it passed before Monday. Otherwise the brotherhood leaders will go ahead with their plans for walking out Labor day.

This intimation came very broadly from the brotherhood camp Tuesday and the intimation is supported by the nature of the Canadian law. The law prevents a lockout or a strike being started during a given period. Hence if the strike is already in effect Monday, the law will be ineffective in the view of brotherhood leaders.

society," they have declined to accept this means of settlement, he said.

Roads Fear Hostile Shippers

The railroads fear the influence of hostile shippers and they apparently feel, no confidence that the interstate commerce commission could withstand the objections that would be made, the president said.

"They do not care to reply upon the friendly assurances of the congress or the president. They have thought it best that they should be forced to yield, if they must yield, not by counsel, but by the suffering of the country."

To See Congress Leaders

The president Tuesday night at 8 o'clock was to go to the capitol again to confer with Speaker Clark, Representative Kitchin, Floor Leader of the house, Representative Mann, republican leader in the house, and Chairman Adamson of the house interstate commerce committee, to urge early action on his proposal.

Republicans manifested opposition early Tuesday and indicated they would need considerable time for debate. Nevertheless, administration officials feel that the entire program will go through within ten days.

Conference Monday night with both the railroad brotherhoods and the railroad executives developed only that neither side would yield anything.

Danger of the strike again became acute today. A statement issued Monday afternoon by the committee of eight railroad presidents placed stress on a report that a strike was to be called for September 4. Their authority for the report was not given but the brotherhood representatives earlier in the day charged the railroad heads with having had spies at recent brotherhood meetings.

Strike for Labor Day

The committee statement follows: "At a conference at the White house between the president and a committee of eight a suggestion was laid before the president in the nature of a proposition for progress toward a solution of the questions at issue and this was left with him for his consideration.

"This committee expects to see the president again in the near future but before leaving the committee pointed out to him that if, as reported, the date for declaring the strike had been fixed for September 4, it would force an early conclusion of the negotiations and compel the presidents to return to their properties to prepare for the issue.

Executives Defiant
The brotherhoods at the White house Monday night refused to agree on the president's urgent request that the strike order calling for a walk-out of 400,000 trainmen at 7 a. m. Labor day be recalled. The railroad executives informed of this later assumed a defiant air.

Holding out to the last, the railroad presidents on Tuesday tendered President their refusal to accept the final proposal for settlement he submitted Monday—concession of the eight hour day, with all the time necessary for a commission of five to investigate its application to railroad operation. At the same time they left with him the counter proposal which they had been trying to submit since Saturday evening—formal rejection of the president's original proposition and a plea for arbitration of all matters in dispute between the railroads and the brotherhoods.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND VETERANS GATHER IN ENCAMPMENT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 29.—Fifteen thousand veterans thronged Camp Kansas City Tuesday for the fiftieth encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Down town thoroughfares were crowded with the wearers of the blue, while hotel lobbies and Convention hall buzzed with stories of '61.

The attendance has decreased somewhat, due to fear of a railroad strike and lack of rates, but will reach 40,000.

A special train brought six hundred veterans of the department of Illinois into the city from Chicago Tuesday morning. Delegations from Ohio and West Virginia also arrived.

ALLIES CHEER DECLARATION

SALONIKA, Aug. 29.—Cheers went up all along the 140 mile front of the allies in the Balkans when news of Rumania's declaration of war was flashed to the battle front from Salonika.

The first word was received here early Monday. Bulletins were displayed in the troop camps and the news was rushed on to the front. Thousands of small slips of paper, carrying word of Rumania's action, were hastily printed and carried to the front by Anglo-French aviators to be showered behind the Bulgarian lines.

WOMEN DUEL WITH BIG KNIFE AND REVOLVER

John Barleycorn Causes
Arrest of Whole Family Following Battle

DECORAH, Iowa.—(Special.)—

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pleasant, John Barleycorn, a revolver and a butcher knife all combined recently to make a spectacular combination in this city. The Pleasants reside in rooms over the Lamm building, the Smiths have their rooms in a small house nearby. Beer and other liquid refreshments had been indulged in by all hands and when Noah and Clarence reached the "hilarious" stage, then began scrapping Mrs. Pleasant called in the police who arrested Smith for drunkenness. It being Sunday, the justice desired to hold over the case till Monday, Noah putting up $20.00 as bail for his appearance. The ire of his spouse was roused by this procedure, and when Mrs. Pleasant returned to her happy home she found the way blocked by the ample form of Mrs. Smith, who laid in wait with a revolver hidden beneath her apron. Mrs. Pleasant then drew from the folds of her dress a butcher-knife with which she proceeded to carve certain callistic signs upon her enemy's scalp. A hurry call for the night-watchman brought that dignity and also the marshal and Mrs. Pleasant was arrested. The case awaits the action of the grand jury, the charge being "assault with a dangerous weapon, with intent to do great bodily injury."

There was a great deal of talk about the night-watchman brought that dignity and also the marshal and Mrs. Pleasant was arrested. The case awaits the action of the grand jury, the charge being "assault with a dangerous weapon, with intent to do great bodily injury."

REED WAXES WROTH AGAINST ALLEGED HUGHES TACTICS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Outlining the record of the democratic party under the Wilson administration in a lengthy speech on the floor, Senator Reed, Missouri, on Tuesday bitterly arraigned Republican Candidate Hughes for "indulging in a species of attack so pusillanimous during his swing around the circle as scarce to merit serious reply."

"Behold the spectacle," declared Reed, "of the supreme court justice who defied his ermine and laid aside his judicial temperament to plunge into the stream of politics, abandoning his honorable robes on the bank. He bears the accoutrements of a hunter in search of big game. Before him runs Smoot, as master of the hunt, who gaily upon his huntsman's horns winds 'the dirge of the bull moose'; by his side, bearers of incense, workers, workers of magic, political conjurers, troop Penrose, Perkins, Crane and Cortelyou, Guggenheim and Gary, Barnes and Flynn, Schwab and Du Pont. Close on their heels swarm the doubtless legends of the Old Guard. In command Roosevelt, tearing aloft on glory pike the slaughtered moose's bleeding head.

"Public proclamation is made that the woods are full of political dragons, tigers, monsters that devour the people. Anxious days and nights pass. Then the mighty hunters return. Proudly at arm's length the illustrious chief displays, suspended by the tail, the spoils. It is a diminutive 'civil-service-durand' chipmunk of questionable antecedents and doubtful reputation.

"The people wonder whether, after all, there were no political monsters in the jungle, or whether through his judicial glasses, Mr. Hughes was unable to distinguish between root gnawing rodents and man-eating carnivora."

law will take him, once the funeral is over."
As we remarked, the body of a woman lay in White's undertaking parlors all day yesterday. If Myrtle Student-Leafblood-Erich can reflect, wherever she is, she probably has concluded that this is a peculiar world. Four officers of the county charities were conferring with the undertaker, trying to decide who should pay the funeral expenses for Myrtle, for whom "nothing was too good to buy."

Friends Raise Money
The funeral was held this afternoon, at two o'clock, after friends had raised a purse to purchase a lot in the North side cemetery. Rev. W. J. Peacock officiating as an act of Christian charity. And the police have been requested by the district attorney to "pick up" Erlich.

It will not be an unfamiliar experience for him. On June 5, 1913, Nathan Erlich was brought before Judge Brindley, together with Lillian Johnson, a woman not his wife, to answer a statutory charge. The arrest followed a raid on the house in which he was living the night before. Among other bits of testimony offered was the statement of two officers under oath, who said that Erlich had offered one of them money if they would let him go. Both parties were fined $100 and costs, and sentenced to three months in jail. Erlich never went there. Appeal was made to the circuit court, but the case never came to trial.

However, on November 10, Erlich paid twenty-five dollars to District Attorney Law to apply on the fine for another statutory offense.

ARMY, NAVY, PHILIPPINE AND BILL OF LADINGS BILLS PASS PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—President Wilson on Tuesday signed the army, navy, Philippine and bill of lading bills.

The ceremony was featured by the presence of nearly a hundred persons, including Secretary of War Baker, members of the committee who handled the different bills in the house and senate, prominent Filipinos and others.

FORMER SINGER'S FAMILY OFFERS A REWARD FOR BODY

A reward, the amount of which is not yet known, is offered for the body of Jack Martin, once light opera singer, who drowned as a laborer from a government rock barge in the Mississippi near Brownsville. A wire informing the police of the reward was received from William J. Martin, Buffalo, N. Y., a brother of the former star.

The amount of the reward, it is believed, will become known with the arrival of a letter the telegram mentions as being on the way.

Martin drowned a fortnight ago. His body has not been seen since.

the injury of the dairy interests of the state.

"Upon his recommendation the state's appropriation for aiding highway construction was reduced, thus placing an added and unjust burden upon the counties and the townships for highway construction.

Interferes With Scholastic Liberty
In his first message to the legislature and through his official acts later he has attempted to interfere with the freedom of teaching at the university, an interference which has had the effect of intimidating certain members of the faculty.

"By the failure of his administration to enact a law for the regulation of fire insurance rates the people of Wisconsin were overcharged $2,700,000 on fire insurance premiums in the year 1915, an unjust burden which exceeds by almost $2,000,000 the sum which he claims to have saved through small economies in the operation of certain departments of the government.

"His economies have not been real economies. They may appear as such on paper, but the expenses of government have not been reduced. This administration has failed to meet some of the obligations it has contracted. Certain building programs have been delayed. A part of the expense of highway construction, heretofore borne by the state, has been transferred from the state to the counties. But on the whole, the expenses of government are higher today than ever before. Delaying the construction of buildings that must be built, and transferring from the state to the county the cost of roads, does not reduce the burden to the taxpayer. Juggling the books does nothing for the taxpayers.

"Governor Philipp has increased the number of offices and boards and commissions, and in several instances has provided salaries for those newly created positions which exceed by $1,000 a year any other salaries paid to any official in the state government, excepting the justices of the supreme court.

"When we consider the governor's attitude toward these principles of government it should not be possible for any thinking person to misunderstand the real issue of this campaign. The vital thing in this campaign is the preservation of the spirit of progressive legislation through electing to the state offices men who are in sympathy with the content of these laws in both the letter and the spirit, and who, being in sympathy with them, will administer these laws in the spirit in which they were enacted.

Hatton's Program

"If I am elected governor:

"The railroad commission law will be enforced in the spirit in which it was enacted.

"The efficiency of the income tax will be maintained.

"The workmen's compensation act will be preserved so that an injured workman does not have to hire a lawyer or go to court, and the law will be amended so that the amount of compensation is increased.

"The legislative reference library will be preserved.

"The state's rights and the public's interest in waterpowers will be conserved.

"The efficiency of the dairy and food commission will be restored.

"The state will bear its just proportion of the expenses of constructing highways.

"Freedom of teaching and freedom of opinion at the university will be preserved.

"Fire insurance rates will be regulated and reduced.

"Genuine economy will be enforced in every department of the state government, but the real business of government will not be neglected.

"The issue between the progressives and the conservatives in this campaign is, as I have shown you here, clearly drawn. It is for you to choose what kind of government you will have for the next two years."

FREIGHT HANDLERS' STRIKE SPREADS TO OTHER ROADS

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A freight handlers' strike on the Burlington road spread today to other roads. Over 500 freight handlers on the Burlington & Ohio and Grand Trunk were called out because of the refusal of the railroads to recognize their union.

J. B. Roche, secretary of the Freight Handlers' union, predicted strikes on several other roads. Three hundred and fifty handlers struck on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road Monday.

Western railroad officials speeded up their efforts to be prepared for a strike of the four brotherhoods. Lists of former employees were checked over, strike headquarters were opened by some roads and shippers were notified to be prepared to meet strike conditions.

The Santa Fe road is prepared to run its trains in case of a strike.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The war department on Tuesday temporarily suspended an order releasing college students from the militia on September 1. This order does not apply to military units composed entirely of college students, which will be disbanded on September 1.

PREDICT AUSTRIA WILL TAKE MEN FROM BALKANS

ROME, Aug. 29.—Complete evacuation of Montenegro and Albania by the Austrians will be the first result of Rumania's entrance into the war, Italian critics asserted Tuesday. The early collapse of the dual monarchy, possibly by the end of the present year, was predicted by a majority of the Italian war experts.

Despite denials from Vienna, it has been learned by the Italian military authorities that Austria has withdrawn nearly a whole army corps from Montenegro and Albania within the past six weeks to check the Russian and Italian offensives. The new menace on the Transylvanian frontier will force the withdrawal of the remainder of the Austrian forces, it is believed here, leaving only Bulgarian troops in Albania to resist the Italians.

FIVE MORE CASES MAKE 145 TOTAL

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 29.—With five new cases of infantile paralysis reported on Tuesday, Wisconsin has 145 cases of the disease. There is one from each of the following places:

Wittenberg, Adell, Town of Kewaskum (Washington county), Town of Ashford (Fond du Lac county), and Town of Osceola (Polk county.)

manian declaration of war was generally known.

The first official statement reporting the capture of Rumanian prisoners came from the German war office, indicating that German troops already are stiffening the Austrian lines along Rumania's frontier.

The whole Balkan war theater has been set aflame by Rumania's entrance into the war. Pro-ally demonstrations occurred in Athens and the Venizelist newspapers are renewing their demand that Greece enter the war.

Great Battle Expected at Any Time

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—A great battle may occur along the Rumanian frontier within a few hours.

Rumania has been concentrating large forces along the Transylvanian border for several days, the Tageblatt reported. The Teutonic forces took prompt measures to guard against a sudden invasion and have massed sufficient troops to meet the Rumanian attack.

The patrol skirmishes reported in Monday's official war office statement may mark the beginning of an important engagement.

MAUSTON SOLDIER BACK TO RUN FOR SHERIFF'S OFFICE

MAUSTON, Wis.—(Special.)—Lieutenant H. J. Lyons, recruiting officer from Company D, Third Wisconsin Infantry, at San Antonio, Texas, came to Camp Douglas last Thursday from the border. On Friday Harry was back "at home" and shaking hands with friends and relatives. Saturday night brought another arrival direct from San Antonio and the "boys," Otis G. Loomis, quartermaster sergeant of Company D, arrived to finish in a whirlwind race for the office of sheriff. This race promises to be a real one as there are four good men in the field. Lyons and Loomis both assert that the "boys" are well and contented. The officers are whipping them into an excellent army and the Third is doing its share.

YOUTH IS DAZED ENGINE'S CRANK STRIKES HIS HEAD

Knocked unconscious by the crank of the engine he was turning over, Roy Lapitz, was taken to his home, 1113 State street, this morning more dead than alive. The accident occurred when the engine of the launch in which, with a party of boys, he was returning from Riverside camp, refused to move. The boys took the crank without success, and at Lapitz's attempt, he was struck in the forehead by the handle as it slipped from the shaft.

When the party finally arrived at Singer's landing the White ambulance was called and Lapitz was hurried to his home, where Dr. Callahan was called. At twelve o'clock Lapitz was still dazed.

WILL RACE AT THE STATE FAIR

"Wild Bill" Endicott.

WILD BILL ENDICOTT, who is perhaps the best known dirt track automobile racer in the sport today, has wired Secretary O. E. Remey his entry and will bring his Sweeney special to this city to participate in the speed battles at the Wisconsin fair, Sept. 15 and 16. Endicott's entry assures the spectators there will be plenty of competition for the prize money offered by the fair officials. The Hoosier pilot today stands at the head of the class when it comes to years of service on the race courses of America. He broke into the game shortly after Barney Oldfield and first handled a one-cylinder Thomas and previous to that time he had been a professional bicycle rider. During the interval he has sat behind the wheel of a Panhard, Loco steamer, Peerless, Tinsler, Moline, Cole, Wescott, Schacht, Case Tornado, Maxwell and now the Sweeney special. No matter what the car Endicott has always been a consistent winner. The Sweeney special, which Endicott will drive in the races, is owned by E. J. Sweeney, president of the Sweeney Automobile school of Kansas City, Mo. It was built for Mr. Sweeney by Ray Harroun, former chief engineer of the racing department of the Maxwell company, and it cost up into the thousands. It is of 450 cubic inch piston displacement in the speed battles at the Wisconsin fair, Sept. 15 and 16. On two occasions over 100 miles per hour races a bare fraction of a minute behind the winner and then took him first money at Duluth, Minn., several weeks later.

Few men excel Endicott at the dirt track game and in spectacularity he is second to none. Curving round a trick or half-mile oval Endicott has a mile of going as close to the outer fence as possible and then sweeping in on the turns. During this process he usually clears the barbed wire by not more than a foot or a foot and a half. Few rail-fence drivers have the hardihood to occupy their favorite post when he is in the vicinity.

La Crosse soldiers in the Third regiment, Wisconsin Infantry, left today for a hike to New Braunfels, Texas, if the scheduled plans were carried out, according to Lieutenant George Hale of Company M, who is back in the city as recruiting officer. Before he left officers of the Wisconsin brigade were informed of the plans for the march.

Lieutenant Hale gave out the following statement:

Every position but two, captain and first lieutenant, in M company has been vacant since the boys left La Crosse. The men gradually find their places in the eyes of the officers by their ability, their willingness, their general appearance. Length of

MOHA'S HEIGHT IS NO HANDICAP HE LICKS COX

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Bob Moha, standing a foot shorter than his adversary, Monday night hammered Joe Cox, the Missouri heavyweight, all over the ring in a ten round bout at the Manhattan Athletic club. Several times Cox was seen reeling by blows delivered by Moha, as he leaped into the air or stood on tiptoe to reach his huge opponent. Cox was unable to make any impression on the little Wisconsin demon.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Monday's Hero

John McGraw. He took over Heinie Zimmerman's contract, trading Larry Doyle for the Demon third baseman.

Christy Mathewson readjusted the Giants' skids when his team hammered out a victory over the former much feared team.

Fred Toney pitched his usual game, but the Reds forgot themselves and spotted him to five runs.

The Braves split a pair with Pittsburgh, the Pirates taking the first through good pitching by Mammaux and the Braves annexing the second with Allen hurling a good game.

Rudolph suffered his first defeat in ten games when he fell in battle with Mammaux.

It was Mammaux's first appearance on the mound since his run-in with Manager Callahan.

Joe Boehling was sent against his former team mates Monday by Manager Fohl, but custom refused to work and Walter Johnson won a shutout victory over the Indians.

Detroit and New York were foiled by mud on the Polo grounds and the Browns and Red Sox were kept apart through the same reason.

CHICAGO ARTISTS PAINT AT SALEM

WEST SALEM, Wis.—(Special.)—West Salem will soon have more than a local reputation for beauty. Several years ago Mr. Payrand a New York artist of note visited at the home of Hamlin Garland and made many beautiful pictures of scenes in this locality. Two years ago Wilson Irvine of Chicago, one of the city's foremost painters spent the summer here, and took away with him some wonderfully beautiful canvases as the result of his summer's work. He said that he could spend a month on "Table Rock" painting a different view each day and not exhausting the scenic supply.

Charles Brown, famous artist and president of the Chicago art institute, has been here several times placing paintings for pictures. At the present time there are two of the Chicago Art Institute teachers here, Miss Janet Baker and Miss Margaret Buckley. They are staying with Mrs. Lynn Gullickson at the Hamlin Garland home, and are most enthusiastic over the rich prospect ahead of them.

THE HASKIN LETTER

ARE THEY GOING UP OR DOWN?

By Frederic J. Haskin

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—This question, which refers to skirts, is just now preying on the minds of about ten thousand buyers who have come to New York from all parts of the country to select the things the American women will wear this winter.

It is not the price they mean, either. There is no doubt about that. It is going up. But how about the hem of the skirt? Will it continue its amazing rise toward the knee or descend once more toward the ankle? This is a most solemn problem to the buyers. Out of the hundreds of models offered in the wholesale stores just off Fifth avenue, each of these emissaries from the retail trade must choose five or six, or perhaps fifty or sixty models that will appeal to the women of Kokomo or Corsicana or Walla Walla or Yeldville or Chicago or Boston, as the case may be.

For most of the really progressive clothing stores in the country are represented in New York at this time of the year. The retailer who is after fashion is not content to order from the samples of traveling men. He comes to New York in person or sends a representative, and tries to interpret the taste of his trade in terms of the Fifth avenue offerings. In the cast of the small firm, the buyer is usually the proprietor himself, who makes one or two trips a year to New York. Most of the big firms like Marshall Field of Chicago and Jordan-Marsh of Boston, on the other hand, have permanent offices here, and are represented by anywhere from fifteen to fifty buyers all of the time. Some of these spend their days scouting among the innumerable wholesale firms, while others stay at headquarters and receive the throngs of salesmen who come with offerings. Each of these buying experts is persistently hunting for the thing that the women of his or her particular town are going to want.

How it is identified is a mystery. In the show rooms of the big wholesale firms young women models, who are lightening-change artists, parade one design after another before the critical eyes of the buyers, who indicate with a quick gesture or nod when something comes along that will suit their particular trade. The variety of offerings in form and color, material and weight, is something bewildering. One firm may offer several hundred models. As one buyer put it, for a young man in New York to have five hundred skirts to choose from might seem interesting, but it isn't. It is a trying exercise in judgment, with a large element of luck thrown in.

Most of these buyers are not young men, however. A very large percentage of them are women, and this percentage is steadily growing. The difficult task of clothing American women is very largely in the hands of women themselves, from the designers to the purchasers in the retail stores. Not only do the buying forces include more women than men, but women are often the sole representatives of important firms. Most businesslike buyers they are, too, swift in judgment and direct and straightforward in dealings.

Needless to say, these lady purchasers are the subject of much and solicitous attention on the part of the wholesalers. There is nothing like a buying power of forty or fifty thousand dollars to make a young woman popular in New York. Automobiles are placed at their service and they are showered with invitations. One wholesaler recently took two young women from a large western firm for a motor trip to Coney Island. On the return, his chauffeur collided with a street car, and the two young skirt-specialists were spilled on Broadway. At last reports they were doing nicely in a hospital and holding up their orders while a large number of wholesalers are attentive with flowers and candy.

For the most part, however, this matter of buying ready-to-wear clothing is a very businesslike proposition. There are no longer any seasons for the large firms, whose buyers are on the hunt all the time for the things they want. This year the problem has been an especially difficult one for a number of reasons. In the first place, the European war has made it impossible to get some materials and hard to get many others, while the dye problem has forced some colors out of existence. This situation was further complicated by the garment makers' strike, which stopped some fifty thousand needles just as the fall season was coming on, and caused many wholesalers great difficulty in filling their orders. The country is prosperous, and the demand from all sections heavy, so that the buyer has found himself standing between a prosperous public demanding fashionable clothes and a somewhat demoralized wholesale trade that did not know exactly what or when it could deliver. Now that the strike is over, however, the business is going forward with a rush. The fact that many buyers who in former years have gone to London or Paris for their more exclusive offerings now come to New York has added to the congestion. New York is more the fashion center of the world than ever before, and it is trying mightily to rise to the occasion.

Buyers admit that the retail price of women's clothing is sure to be a good deal higher this year than last. In many cases the prices will increase between ten and fifteen per cent. This, they say, will not affect the retail trade in the least during such a prosperous year. One of the great American ambitions is to have the women well dressed, and provided the style is there, the price is not a deterrent.

One reason for the increased cost of suits is the greatly increased amount of cloth that goes into them this year. Not only has broadcloth advanced in price ten cents a yard, but the 1916 skirt with its abundant fullness requires a great deal more material than the tubular model of a short time ago. Some of the popular materials are now almost impossible to obtain. For example, the cloth known as Bolivia, which is being much used in coats, is no longer offered by the factories, which are booked to capacity.

The great congress of buyers assembled here forms an interesting index to the varying tastes of American women. One of the most striking facts is that the towns farthest from the metropolis are often the most insistent upon having the very latest and most advanced styles. This is especially true of the Pacific coast towns. Even the dealers in the smaller cities send their representatives all the way across the continent to select the clothes that their women patrons will wear this fall.

"The women of Walla Walla want their dresses straight from Fifth Avenue," explained the representative of a firm in that far away town. On the other hand, buyers from some eastern cities within telephone call of New York buy only the most conservative models and the standard materials that are always in style.

Are You Giving Your Baby What He Really Needs?

Are you giving him sunshine? He will unfold and bloom in like a flower. Are you giving him the sunniest room in the house—with bare floor and painted walls? Are you giving him a perfect digestion?

With all their love, so many mothers do not know what to give their babies. Yet today, with our National Government searching for the truth each day—you can know—without a shadow of doubt, what is best for your baby

This is what the U. S. Government says to you and every mother—"Milk as ordinarily marketed is absolutely unfit for human food."

Nurse your baby as long as you can—and when you have no milk left to give him—wean him gradually on the nearest thing to your own milk—

Nestlé's Food

(A Complete Food—Not a Milk Modifier)

Nestlé's has in it the fats, proteins and carbohydrates that your baby needs. Don't try to use raw cow's milk as a make-shift. It won't do. Unclean—often filled with germs of diphtheria, scarlet fever and (that greatest of horrors) summer complaint—raw cow's milk carries off more babies than any other cause. Cow's milk fills the need of calves—not of babies.

In Nestlé's—milk from healthy cows, purified, free from germs—the calf needs are modified—the baby needs are added. Reduced to a powder—it comes to you in an air-tight can. No hand has touched it—no germ can reach it. It is a complete food—so you add only water and boil one minute—and you can know that you are giving your baby the food his little body needs.

What The Socialist Candidate For President Says:

(BY ALLAN L. BENSON)

What do you care whether the chief of the coast and geodetic survey is a scientist or a horse doctor? What do you care if the national wealth has increased forty-one billions since Mr. Wilson became president? Have you any of the billions? Morgan and Rockefeller have got a good many of the millions that make up these billions, but have you got anything from your work but a bare living?

I refer to these matters because Mr. Hughes and Mr. Wilson are making much of them. The day Mr. Hughes was nominated he telegraphed to the chairman of the republican convention that he would accept the nomination because a crisis confronted the country. Mr. Hughes' western speeches show how he rises to the requirements of a crisis. They also show how utterly incapable he is of understanding either popular needs or public dangers. Mr. Hughes has done nothing but fly-speck the Wilson administration over trifles.

Think of a candidate for the presidency, in such times as these, wasting his breath to denounce the Wilson administration because it removed a scientist from the head of the coast and geodetic survey and appointed, as Mr. Hughes said, "an excellent stock breeder and veterinary surgeon."

Think of the same candidate in the next breath denouncing the administration because it appointed a son of "Battery Dan" Flinn to a place in the New York customs house.

Is such a man promising material for the white house? Does Mr. Wilson show much fitness for the white house when he boasts of a prosperity that means hundreds of millions to a few and nothing but work and a bare living to the rest?

American working men and women who fail to follow the reasoning behind of these questions will do so at their peril.

It is of the utmost importance to the working class of this country whether it is governed in the interests of a few or of everybody.

Mr. Rockefeller knows the importance of having a government that will sustain the system that has made him almost if not quite a billionaire.

Mr. Morgan knows the importance of having a government that will sustain the same system in his behalf.

The inhabitants of the richest country in the world own none of its riches, because, unlike Rockefeller and Morgan, they do not realize the necessity of having a government at Washington that will not sustain a state of things that make a few multimillionaires while keeping everybody else hard pressed for bread.

Mr. Wilson boasts that his administration has made this country prosperous.

Why did Mr. Wilson's administration fail to bring prosperity to this country until an unparalleled war in Europe had dumped billions of gold into America?

Mr. Wilson boasts that since he became president the national wealth has increased forty-one billions. Who has the forty-one billions? Is the working class becoming rich? Or are Mr. Morgan and Mr. Rockefeller becoming richer? Down in Wall street, they say that J. P. Morgan, Jr., has accumulated more money since the European war began than his father had together in all the years of his life.

Mr. Wilson is pleased to announce that the railroads are enjoying unexampled prosperity, their profits last year averaging $4,100 a mile. The 400,000 railroad men who voted to strike apparently did not get much of this—who did get it? The stockholders of the railroads, of course.

How many of them are there? According to the latest reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission, there are not more than 600,000. The $4,100 a mile of profits were therefore entirely absorbed by a little group who represent but six-tenths of one percent of our population. More than that, a few big railway interests got more of the loot than did all the rest of the 600,000 stockholders.

Mr. Wilson joyfully mentions that during the last year almost six hundred million dollars' worth of food supplies were exported, "a gain of 140 per cent over the exports during the last year of the Taft administration."

Why should Mr. Wilson exult over that? Why should we exult over it? Do not our grocers tell us that we are paying constantly increasing prices for food because so much food is being shipped to Europe? Isn't that why meat is high? Isn't that why the price of flour has increased $2 a barrel during the last month? Are the farmers getting all of this increased cost of living? By no means.

The increased price paid to farmers for wheat last year amounted to $12 for each farmer. Food speculators are getting the money.

This country is not being run in the interests of those who live here and are producing its wealth. It is being run in the interests of a few. A few own industrial America—our railroads, our great manufacturing establishments and our natural resources.

The Socialist party of America is organized for the purpose of restoring America to the American people.

We Socialists do not regard America as only a great cow to be milked by the Rockefeller and the Morgans. We believe the great industries of this nation should be owned by the people, through the government. We believe the government should also be owned by the people and operated in their interests and only their interests. We are weary of a system of private ownership under which, after more than a hundred years of hard labor, the richest country on earth is owned by a few, while the rest are struggling hard for a living.

We demand public ownership of the greatest industries in which so many millions of us must work and upon whose product our lives are dependent.

We are not willing to work only when we can work at a profit for Rockefeller; and we are not willing when we work to take only a bare living and give the rest of the value we produce to Rockefeller.

We urge all well disposed men and women to help restore America to the American people. And, by the American people, we mean all who live and labor in America.

Wonderful Insect World. The insect world represents an unlimited field of life and activity. The number of insect species is greater by far than of the species of all other living creatures combined. Although more than 300,000 have been described, probably twice that number remain to be examined. Virtually all living animals, as well as most plants, supply food for these innumerable hordes.

Five Dogs Poisoned

Five dogs were poisoned in the city Friday, in some mysterious manner. Four of them died instantly, one recovering after a day's illness. Citizens are very indignant and puzzled over this cruel and inhuman slaughter of dogs.

Twenty-two dogs have been poisoned here within the last few months and pieces of meat found covered with arsenic prove the death of the dogs to have been cunningly planned.

The dog owned by J. W. Thayer which died Friday was seen to pick up a piece of meat on a vacant lot on Main street Friday and the other dogs were also seen there during the afternoon. This is the same lot where the poisoned meat was found some time ago. Roy Wakeman, Ben Endicott, Mrs. A. S. Kier and Mr. Walker were the owners of the other four. The dog owned by Mr. Wakeman was a full blooded bull terrier valued at fifty dollars and the family were deeply affected by its loss.

The other dogs were pets in families of children. The Thayer dog was a daily companion of young Howard Thayer, who is critically ill.

One citizen has offered to give fifty dollars if others will add, for a reward for finding the person or persons guilty.
